JOHANNESBURG
MFG. COMPANYHOLD THEIR ANNUAL STOCK-
HOLDERS' MEETING.Visit to Lumber Camp a Feature of Entertainment.

The Johannesburg Mfg. Co. combined pleasure with business at the annual stockholders' meeting last week Friday. At about 8:45 a. m. the local stockholders and others from Detroit, Saginaw and Bay City, together with a few invited friends boarded a special Pullman train, chartered by miles north of Grayling, in Otsego county, on a branch of the Michigan Central railroad. The important occupation is the manufacture of lumber. They boast of a fine school of ten grades. The Bank of Johannesburg has a capital stock of $5,000. A. Becker is cashier and also runs a clothing and dry goods store in the same building. The drug store of W. C. Nelson is a beauty and compares favorably with those in larger cities. There is the Johannesburg Mfg. Co.'s general store; Sheridan and Michelson's meat market; Alpern Bros. & Co. general store; Roy Bentley, barber shop and pool room; and the Franklin Hotel. The health of the people is looked after by Dr. Knapp. There is the company for the occasion, and started for Johannesburg. Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. R. Hanson, M. Michelson, Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Michelson, Fred Michelson, Mr. and Mrs. Esbern Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hanson, Mrs. John K. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Marius Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Alexander, Mrs. Chas. Tromble, Miss Margaret Hanson, Mrs. Henry Bauman, Miss Minnie Jorgenson, and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Schumann, all of Grayling; and Mrs. O. S. Hawes, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Burden and H. W. Kausen, of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cornwell and Chas. W. Kuehl, of Saginaw; James Mulholland, of Owosso; and Miss Kelton and Thomas Garner, of Bay City.

The party arrived at Johannesburg, at about 10 a. m. and were met at the station by the general secretary-treasurer, Manager F. L. Michelson, who one church—a congregational. There are about sixty residences, all well built and comfortable, and nearly all owned by the company.

The town is entirely surrounded by hardwood forests, that will be preserved until the last years of logging operations.

In the summer the town is beautiful with fine lawns and shade trees and at its border a pretty lake where bass fishing, they say, is immense. This lake is about 140 feet below the average land level and has neither inlet nor outlet. It is from this lake that the town water supply is taken. The water for table use is taken from deep wells and, like nearly all the water in this region is about as pure as can be had.

The saw and planing mills of the company are modern and at present are running to their full capacity for 20 hours a day. About 75 men are had arranged to entertain the visitors while in the town.

The principal part of the program was a camp dinner at their logging camp No. 3. It was a four-course affair, but the weather was grand and would have done justice to an April day. The tide was made over one of the ice logging roads and the ten teams that were required to convey the party made the trip in quick time. After the dinner at the camp the company returned to town and the annual stockholders' meeting was held at the company's offices.

The day will long be remembered as one of the unusual events. The little town of Johannesburg proudly opened its gates in welcome to the guests, who were responsible for its very existence. The Johannesburg Mfg. Co. was formed about the year of 1888 and a camp was established where Johannesburg now stands and for four years timber was cut and shipped to Grayling to be made into lumber. In the year of 1902 the town was built—not by erecting a few rookery buildings but laid out on modern principles with wide streets, water works, sewers, electric lights, modern store buildings, hotel, bank and everything that went to make an up-to-date town.

There is a hotel that had been built at a cost of $20,000. A two-story brick block, owned and built by N. Michelson is occupied by a bank, a drug store and clothing and dry goods store. The rooms on the second floor are used for hall and house-keeping purposes. It is heated with steam and has water throughout. This is a monument to the town and was built at a cost of $20,000.

Johannesburg is a town of nearly 400 people and is located about 28 employed here. Manager F. L. Michelson states that fourteen million feet of lumber are annually manufactured and about ten million feet of this is dressed and planed. They have about four million feet of lumber neatly piled in their yards which is about four million feet less than were on hand at this period last year. At present the demand is greater than the supply and more orders are coming in every day.

Manager Michelson has an efficient corps of workmen with H. Dudd as superintendent. Mr. Dudd is also in charge of the electric light power house and water works. He has been in the employ of the company for about eight years and is considered one of the most efficient superintendents in the business.

The company owns enough standing timber to keep the mills running for about fifteen years. The entire product is sold and shipped to Michigan dealers. Last year's cut of maple (about two million feet) was sold and shipped to Kerry & Hanson Flooring Co. of this city, and manufactured into flooring. Taking all things into consideration the company claims that prospects are very bright for the future.

At present they are running two camps. At camp No. 3 there are 66 men employed and 44 at camp No. 4. There are about 16 teams working in the two camps, besides five jobbers drawing logs every day. In all together with the men employed by the jobbers there are about 175 men all working for the company.

Everything is done to make the men comfortable. They are well fed and furnished with clean, comfortable beds. The bunks are two deck and made of iron with springs and mattresses.

Jerry Wolohan is in charge of camp No. 3 and he looks after the work in the woods and the hauling as well as keeping the camp in good running order. There is a large barn for stabling the horses, a blacksmith shop and repair department, a large bank house where the men spend the evenings and sleep, a place where supplies are kept and where men may purchase personal necessities, and a dining room and kitchen combined.

The ice road leading from camp is a special attraction to one unfamiliar with logging. When freezing weather comes in the fall, large sprinklers, holding about 65 barrels of water, are operated the entire length of the road every night. It takes about eight trips to sprinkle the road leading to camp three, or about 520 barrels. This freezes and the continued operations throughout the cold weather form an ice road that is about 14 inches thick by the time the snow is gone in the spring, thus permitting the hauling of logs quite late in the season. Men are at work every day keeping the ice road in order and are known by the camp men as "road monkeys." A steel snow plow is run over it occasionally, thus keeping it perfectly smooth.

When this party of visitors reached the camp the ladies were directed to the dining room and the men to the "ban" where they removed their wraps and prepared to go down to a regular camp dinner. The meal was served in camp style—heavy earthen plates, iron handles and knives and forks, tin basins for soup and hot tea. The dinner started out with hot vegetable soup. The remainder of the bill of fare composed of hot roast beef, boiled potatoes with gravy, boiled cabbage, baked beans, bread, buns, cookies, fried cakes, apple pie and tea. The gentlemen were served with cigars and the ladies with candy. The entire meal was prepared by the camp cook and his assistants and was just the same as served to the camp men. Everything was first class and it goes without saying that it was greatly enjoyed by the visitors.

On the return some of the party visited camp 4 and saw the lake, upon the opposite shore of which a million and a half feet of logs were corded, waiting for the lake to freeze, sufficiently for them to be hauled across. Besides those who came up in the special train there were in the party at the camp dinner, Mr. and Mrs. H. Dudd, Mr. Axel Becker, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Michelson and Dr. H. W. Knapp, all of Johannesburg; Mr. and Mrs. C. Buttles, of Lexington; Miss Armande Lantz of Columbus, O.; Glen R. Miner and Forest A. Lord, of Grayling.

At the stockholders' meeting that followed the trip to camp the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, R. Hanson, Grayling; vice president, O. S. Hawes, Detroit; and secretary-treasurer-general manager F. L. Michelson, Johannesburg, who together with N. Michelson of Grayling and E. J. Cornwell of Saginaw form the board of directors.

All along the highway leading from the town are many farms with good substantial buildings. It is claimed that the land is fertile and rich and the best in Otsego county. Among the farmers near the town are Thomas Sheridan who has a farm of about one section, has a fine residence, barn and silo. The barn has an up-to-date cement basement floor, iron stanchions and flowing water. Besides doing general farming Mr. Sheridan raises lots of live stock. John Rasmussen also is another of the many thrifty farmers. He owns about a half section of land and has fine residence and barns. The land around Johannesburg is said to be a clay loam and crops grow abundantly.

The special train returned to Grayling, arriving at 7 p. m. In the evening there was a general round-up of the various stockholders and a few friends of the local and Johannesburg companies at the rooms of the Grayling Social club where the evening was spent in dancing; also a fine banquet was served.

Most of the out-of-town guests departed for their various homes the following day.

NEW YORK'S NEW GATEWAY.

Built at a Cost of $180,000,000
All United States Could Walk
Through It in a Year
Without Crowding.

During the year of 1913 some 24,000,000 people will pass through the new Grand Central terminal. This figure was arrived at by a careful compilation of traffic estimates and simply means that the station, which was thrown open to the public for the first time the other day, will be the busiest gateway in the western hemisphere. It is because such an ever increasing stream of passengers passes in and out of New York that the New York Central reached the point where it had to appropriate the staggering sum of $180,000,000 for its terminal.

To have built a station that would have accommodated merely two dozen million people annually would have been folly. Such a terminal would handle the traffic of New York for the coming year, but New York's traffic is growing by leaps and bounds. That is why the old terminal that was considered such a wonderful thing when it was built in the seventies had to be torn ruthlessly away. Its successor is built for more than a year to come. Architectural critics say that it will be one of the principal landmarks of the continent for years to come, for its builders have erected a station that will handle five times 24,000,000 people in a year. The entire population of the United States could walk through the Grand Central in 1913 and there would be no crowding.

The point where the station has been built is recognized as the most active spot in America. It is a real civic center, a real "hub" of New York, for it has grown naturally and inevitably. Not only does a vast volume of cross-state and transcontinental traffic direct itself to this very spot, but in the city itself it is the converging spot of the city's transit facilities. When the present transit plans are carried to completion it will be the junction of six systems, elevated, surface and underground; for there are not only the present subway and the Lexington avenue line but will have a joint connector with the business of the Steinway tunnel will begin there, and the McAdoo tubes will reach over from the other side of Manhattan. The passenger will be able to pass from his train to a platform, that from which trains will shoot him away underground and under river to Long Island or New Jersey without his once stepping from under cover. Already more than 7,000 cars of city transit arrive at this junction every twenty-four hours.

To handle such a volume of traffic it was necessary to erect a station that would be something more than merely spacious. Its builders had to design a terminal that would be the last word in convenience. It would have been monumental folly to put scores upon scores of millions into a station if it was to inherit the old conflicts and confusion once inseparable from

Million Dollars for Your Eyesight

If you were offered $1,000,000.00 for your eye-sight, would you take it?

No! Not for anything you would say, yet many, even more than we have any idea of, are taking grave chances every day by not having them looked after properly.

Poor CLASSES, or no GLASSES at all, we thought good enough oftentimes, even when conditions are serious.

Do not take any more chances with your EYES— you cannot afford to do so, but come in and find out for sure just what condition they are in.

It will cost you but $1.00 to know positively, then if you need glasses they will be supplied at reasonable prices consistent with good service.

the very idea of a big terminal. It would have been preposterous to build a gateway with the idea of it someday accommodating the passing of 100,000,000 people unless all the old time friction could be done away with.

That is why no effort was spared to eliminate friction. To this end every thing was systematized, and in the terminal there are no cross currents in streams of travel. The incoming passengers and the outgoing do not meet. The suburban traffic and the express traffic are put on totally different levels so that, they should not interrupt each other. All the old intermixture of baggage and human freight has been obliterated by the loop system which drops the passengers in one part of the station and the trunks in another. Even settlement is given a place of its own at the new Grand central, for there are special places known as "kissing galleries" where the people wait for arriving friends.

Avoid Rheumatism

Rheumatism with its accompanying pains and tortures, is the result of a diseased action of the kidneys which results in an accumulation of Uric Acid in the blood.

Treatment should commence with the first hint of trouble. Those almost insignificant pains in the small of the back mean trouble—its a warning of kidney weakness— inability to separate the poisons from the blood.

The action of the kidneys is incessant—they work constantly and in company with the liver and bladder strive to purify the blood and keep the system free from poisons. They should have help—if they become weakened and neglected, it means rheumatism or Bright's disease.

If you would avoid these dangerous diseases use

Nial's Stone Root Compound

Start with the first symptoms and make sure that the kidneys are restored to their normal strength and activity

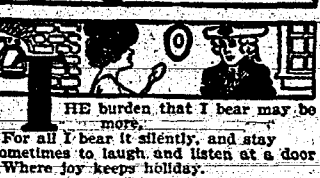

Nial's Stone Root Compound was devised for that very purpose—to assist the kidneys, bladder and liver in their functions and rid the system of Uric Acid and other poisons. Does it, too?

SERVING A DINNER.

Serving a dinner, like manners, cannot be done without daily practice to have things run smoothly. If the maid who serves you is allowed to do it in a careless, shipboard manner when no guests are present, she will blunder and become nervous from too much to remember when guests are present.

The daily habit of doing things as nicely as possible can always be "read by those who run."

As there is a vast majority of people who have no maid or who hire one for an occasion, if she is well taught will follow directions easily. A maid must keep her head, move quietly and quickly, see the need and anticipate the request. A good waitress is an artist as well as a mind reader.

A long, elaborate dinner with an untrained waitress is exceedingly tiresome and no amount of wit or repartee will make it anything but a bore.

At a large dinner no one will ask for a second helping. It is always considered a tribute to the cook to ask for a second helping if such has been provided, when few guests are present.

The dishes "outside the subject," otherwise "hors d'oeuvres," come with the soup, and may be placed before the dinner is announced, which is the usual custom. These consist of such things as olives, radishes, celery and such accessories. Radishes are usually removed with the soup, but salted nuts are passed during the entire meal.

Food that is hot should be served on hot plates, and cold foods on well-chilled plates. This is something that is often entirely neglected and will spoil an otherwise delightful meal.

Those who will accept carelessly cooked and ill-served meals daily need not look for good service in time of many guests.

Depends.

"What do you think about wigs?" "That sometimes they are a costly luxury and sometimes a bald necessity."

THE PROFESSION OF MOTHERHOOD.

It is a difficult profession, this profession of motherhood. In the animal kingdom as the offspring grows older, the parent withdraws their ministrations, but in the human family the older children grow, the more diplomacy and enthusiasm is needed by the ruling spirit. The boys begin to get unruly and the girls get sassy—the husband gets less willing to make an effort and more ready to sit quietly by the fire in the evening—then it is that many a family drifts apart. But the mother can have a holiday. She must always be on top. The only difference is that as the children grow older it is they and not she who is managing affairs.

There is no happier nor more cozy picture of home life than the little family group gathered about the evening lamp, while some member reads aloud. These evening readings can be made educational and develop in many ways, which the eager or feminine mind, eager for improvement, will easily devise.

KEEP SCISSORS IN KITCHEN

Innumerable Ways in Which They May Be of Far Greater Service Than the Knife.

A pair of scissors in the kitchen are of invaluable assistance—not the lamp scissors or the dull pair that is black with age, nor the garden pair, nor yet those with the missing points, but a new, sharp, shiny pair that will cut.

It is a difficult matter, for instance, to remove the white pith from grape fruit with a knife; one digs and jabs, and finally cuts out the offending center and, incidentally, makes a hole in the fruit through which the juice drips onto the plate. Not so with the scissors. A snip, a pull, and there it is without trouble or mutilation.

And bacon! How few women can slice off the slippery rind, while with scissors every morsel can be quickly pared away without a vestige of waste. In cutting off the legs of a lobster, in breaking open the claws and cutting through the tail, the scissors will do the work uncomplainingly without the aid of the hammer and ice pick.

In preparing vegetables they are incomparable. Try them in cutting the roots from spinach, trimming rusty lettuce leaves, shaping flowerets of cauliflower, and cutting up asparagus. Dice up the pineapple with them, cut up the meat and fish for salads, remove the veins from shrimps, use them for the fish-bone and save your fingers.

TOWEL DESIGNS ARE PRETTY

Natural Colors Introduced to Add to Effect, and Results Speak for Themselves.

When the dainty cross stitch designs in natural colors were fashioned in garlands from flowers and bowknots on towels last year many declared nothing could be prettier, but now the dark stitch and the blue stitch, in natural colors, have been introduced and they certainly are attractive.

At the present moment, however, no towels are meeting with popular favor like these variously termed the "medieval design," the "20th century design" and "Venetian point"—designations that are confusing in both period and place. There is some excuse for this, as the designs show the influence of lace's evolution and do not cling to any one decided type, but borrow beauty from all. The work is done in a sort of buttonhole stitch, combined with punch work.

KITCHEN

Covering a chicken with cheese-cloth will prevent it from getting scorched or drying too much while broasting. When the fowl is ready for the oven sew it in a piece of cheese-cloth and fasten it through this covering, only removing the cloth at the time the chicken is ready to be served, when you will find it has an exquisite golden brown color.

Nasturtium leaves, the tiny green ones, give a delicious flavor to both hot and cold tea.

When making picnic sandwiches turn the loaf upside down, and you will find that you can cut thinner and even slices.

Hamburg Steak and Potato.

Take a pound of cold boiled potatoes, pour on them a wine glass of hot milk or water, add a big lump of dripping, cold bacon fat or butter, mash to a pulp, then beat up with a fork until quite light, take three-quarters of a pound of hamburger steak, make into small cakes, sprinkle a little finely chopped onion—on top of each cake. Make the potato pulp into thick, round cakes and put a cake of hamburger steak on each. Place in a well-greased lug. Close and seal it; cook in a hot oven for 25 minutes.

Graham Nut Bread.

One cake compressed yeast dissolved in cup of warm water with one teaspoon sugar. Let stand until foamy. Make soft sponge with four cups warm water, two teaspoons salt, one teaspoon lard, two tablespoons sugar, and white flour. Add the yeast and let stand until very light. Mix into soft loaf with one cup sugar, one-half cup walnuts cut fine and two and one-half pounds Graham flour. Let rise and make into four loaves. Bake in moderate oven one hour.

To Soften Butter.

When butter gets too hard for use in winter fill a bowl with boiling water. Allow it to stand for a few moments until the bowl is thoroughly hot. Empty out the water and place the steaming bowl over the plate of butter. This may be done in a few minutes before one wishes to use the butter. There is no waste and the flavor of the butter is not impaired as by heating at the stove.

When Cooking Eggs.

Here is a fact worth knowing when you cook eggs.

A spoonful of flour added to the grease in which eggs are to be fried will prevent them from breaking or sticking to the pan.

Rye Sandwiches.

Cut rye bread into very thin slices and any fanciful shape. Spread with a filling of cream-cheese. Grate the cheese. Rub to a paste with melted butter. Season with salt and pepper and spread.

Here is a remedy that will cure your cold: Why waste time and money experimenting when you can get a preparation that has won world wide reputations by its cures of this disease and can always be depended upon? It is known everywhere as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and is a medicinal of real merit. For sale by all dealers. Adv.

TRY TO BE ORDERLY

HAVE PLACE FOR EVERYTHING AND KEEP IT THERE.

The Topsy-Turvy Girl Finds It Hard to Live or Work in Cramped Quarters—Be Neat at Any Cost.

It is hard to keep crowded quarters neat, as the girl of one room or the housekeeper of a small house sorrowfully knows. In days when there were great linen chests, huge closets and fewer belongings, the problem was simpler. Then our grandparents made a fetish of neatness.

If only in the interest of one's nerves a place for everything needed to be cultivated. It is not restful to hunt madly for gloves or overcoats; to make hay in a drawer in desperate search for a missing article; to turn a household upside down with frantic cries, "Mother, where is my hat?" "Who's taken my mileage book? I know I'll miss the train."

The girl who works must be neat and in order. Mere surface cleanliness will not do. If there is lack of system there are sure to be painful mistakes and sharp reprimands. For her own sake a girl should be orderly; the time taken hunting one's belongings is that much time lost. Work in arrears is bad business.

The easiest way to be orderly is to learn that it is as easy to put an article in one place as another. It is not difficult to acquire places for everything and keep those things placed. The easy-going girl does not realize until she has a reputation for being sloven how far from nice she is.

Another cure for disorder is elimination. Cut down your belongings. If you live in cramped quarters make the elimination drastic. It is surprising how much we can get along with. To own no more things at one time than one needs means a more placid life.

If naturally careless and without early training in neatness, a woman should take herself severely in hand. She should determine to be neat at any cost. This means living more slowly. Half the secret of misplaced belongings is planning more for our day than there are hours for accomplishment. The woman who rushes from one engagement to another leaves a trail of scattered belongings and upset rooms.

Meringue Cereal Cream.

Use any cooked cereal. Be sure that it is steamed until it is very soft and creamy. Then remove from the fire and to each cupful stir in one tablespoonful of whipped cream and the same amount of stiffly whipped egg white. Serve this immediately heaped on saucers, dusted with powdered sugar and pour over each portion half a small cupful of thick cream. This recipe may also be varied by stirring in a tablespoonful of chopped nut-meats—seeded raisins, dates or figs, and forms one of the most delicious preparations.

Cream Cake.

Two cups powdered sugar, two-thirds cup butter, four eggs, one-half cup milk, finally the frothed whites, alternately with the flour, bake in jelly tins; when cold, spread the following mixture between them: One cup milk, two small teaspoons cornstarch, one egg, one teaspoon vanilla, one-half cup sugar; scald the milk, add the cornstarch, wet with a little cold milk, pour upon the beaten eggs and sugar, return to the fire and stir until quite thick, flavor when cold.

Grape Juice Punch.

Cook together one pound sugar and half pint water until it spins a thread. Take from the fire and turn over a cup of strong tea. Add the juice of six lemons and the same amount of oranges with a quart of grape juice and stand aside over night. When ready to serve add sliced fruits and the water, plain or mineral, with ice in the punchbowl. If desired, cut one-half pound marshmallows into quarters and allow three to four glass.

Egg Salad.

Make a cup from the crisp leaves of lettuce. Remove the shells from hard-boiled eggs, slice them across with a sharp knife and arrange the slices in the cup without breaking them. Break hickory nut meats in medium sized pieces and sprinkle generously over the top of the eggs. Garnish with a rich mayonnaise dressing and top with a brilliant green mint cherry. Chill well before serving.

Orangade.

Squeeze out the juice of an orange, pour boiling water on a little of the peel and cover it close; boil sugar and water to a thin sirup and skim it; when all are cold mix the juice, the infusion and the sirup with as much water as will make a rich drink; strain through a jelly bag.

Potato Puffs.

Boil six potatoes and put through a colander. Beat one egg; mix with it one-fourth cup milk; add the potatoes, pinch of butter and salt. Form potatoes into fancy shape, brush with egg and bake in hot oven.

Chili Sauce.

Eighteen large tomatoes, two onions, three green peppers, one cup white sugar, 2 1/2 cups vinegar, two teaspoons each salt, cinnamon, cloves and allspice. Cook half an hour and bottle.

Mirrors at Road Corners.

We have compared and checked all receipts with the county treasurer's books and found them correct and returned them to the county clerk.

We have compared monthly total receipts and expenditures given in report with entries in the book treasurer's ledger and found them correct.

We have added the balance on hand October 1, 1912, and all receipts for October, November and December, 1912, and have deducted therefrom the orders paid during the same period, and find that there was in the hands of the county treasurer on December 31, 1912, the sum of $414.32, which amount was proven by the treasurer's bank account and cash on hand.

We have made careful examination and find the accounts in the county treasurer's office and in the county clerk's office are kept accurate and correct, and brought down to date under a good system.

A hero in a light house.
For years J. S. Donahue, So. Haven, Mich., a civil war captain, as a light-house keeper, averted awful wrecks, but a queer fact is, he might have been a wreck himself, if Electric Bitters had not prevented. "They cured me of kidney trouble and chills," he writes, "after I had taken other so-called cures for years, without benefit, and they also improved my sight. Now at seventy, I am feeling fine." For dyspepsia, indigestion, all stomach, liver and kidney troubles, they're without equal. Try them. Only 50c per bottle.

Our attention has been called by a certain Grayling lady to the matter of providing water for dogs. At this time of the year it is difficult for dogs to find sufficient drinking water, and not being able to talk, they are obliged to drink from the street gutter. This is often the cause of illness. Drinking places could be provided in different neighborhoods, without much trouble, where water could be had. The only difficulty would be to keep it from freezing, and some method would have to be adopted to prevent this.

How to be miserable! In the first place, if you want to be miserable, be selfish, think all the time of yourself and of your own things. Don't care for anybody but yourself. Never think of enjoying the satisfaction of seeing others happy, but rather, if you see a smiling face, be jealous lest another should enjoy what you have not. Envy everyone who is better off in any respect than yourself. Think very unkindly toward them and think lightly of them. Be constantly afraid lest some one should encroach upon your rights; be watchful of it and if any one comes near your things, snap at him like a dog. Content earnestly for everything that is your own though it may not be worth a pin, for your rights are just as much concerned as though they were a pound of gold. Never yield a point. Be very sensitive, and take everything that is said to you in playfulness, in the most serious manner, be jealous of your friends lest they should not think enough of you; and if at any time they seem to neglect you, put the worst construction upon their conduct you can. Thus you will keep yourself unhappy.

In other words not to diagnose a disease accurately may prove fatal. Every one should be able to recognize an ailment and give correct treatment at the first symptoms. A teacher can never expect to be a real success unless she brings the right spirit into her work. If she undertakes to do more sordid considerations, with no appreciations of the fact that her profession offers her not only the means of obtaining a good livelihood, but also a channel through which she may greatly benefit mankind, and win the lasting respect of her generation, if she enters upon her work with no thought of this ennobling fact, the chances that she will worthily fulfill her duties is small. The true teacher should bring to her work an earnest, faithful, enthusiastic, appreciative spirit, a spirit that yearns above all things to be useful to her race, that places self last and gains far beneath the bright, consistent adherence to duty; that can see the stamp of honor and promise upon the most untoward child, and is able to labor early and late, not to amass wealth, but to be able to say, when the end of all things on earth come to her, that the "world is better for the living." Of this spirit are teachers that the world delights to honor as true ornaments to their profession.
